FIERE IS SHOWN an aerial photograph of the new $1,000,000 for the Tribune from an airplane piloted by Herbert Holloway of the Rainbow Flying service. The picture was taken while the plane was speeding to the south and west and at an elevation of between 600 and 600 feet. The building faces the west and the tower in the center is on a direct line with Third avenue south. As indicated by the picture, the structure is divided into three parts or sections, the one in the immediate foreground being the physical education department, the center being devoted to class rooms, offices, laboratories and library and the south wing, to the right to an auditorium, shops and cafeteria. The building is constructed of tapestry brick over a frame work of cement, reinforced with steel. Men can be seen at work in front of the main wast entrance, which will lead down to a spacious lawn. To the west of the lawn will be the stadium and athletic fields. The wing to the rear of the building is an extension of the center section and will be used for class rooms and laboratories.

FACOLITY

People Who Administer Our School

Facing difficult decisions in the face of declining enrollments, trustees tackle financial, personnel, and a multitude of other community-school related problems at their weekly meetings. Inasmuch as Great Falls schools have suffered nearly a 10,000 pupil loss in the last decade, problems in this area alone tax the best of administrative talents.

CORRICULION

Student being advised by a teacher.

A student receives help from a teacher.

Faced with declining enrollments, GFHS curriculum and staff began to undergo significant changes this year. The institution of an advisement program, whereby each teacher or administrator was assigned 17-18 students for advisement and counseling, was a significant departure from the older counseling system. Advisors and advisees planned programs leading to graduation, and attempted to establish closer and more harmonious relationships between the student and the school.

Need information . . . glad to help.

Lounging around . . . as usual.

Isn't he cute?

An artist at work.

Mrs. Russell having fun.

I can do it!

French is fun!

Although GFHS did not face the staff cutbacks which CMR did at the end of this year, the policy regarding class enrollments—twenty minimum to justify a class being kept—saw some subjects being deleted, or classes being consolidated, a move not always popular with either students or faculty.

Homework . . . all the time.

Drum major Ross.

Listen to those clarinets.

How about that?

Over the years, the graduation credit requirements here have risen from 17 needed in 1978, to the 20 needed to graduate this year. To phase in the additional credits, a single one was added yearly for 1979, 1980, and 1981. Although no definite statements had been made regarding future increases, administrators said such adjustments would be made if needed by accrediting universities or colleges.

Mr. Larson conducting.

Chorus in action.

A violinist.

You hook this to this and ...

What are we making?

History is REAL exciting.

A sign being made for the festival.

Hit hard by the closure of the Anaconda operations in Great Falls and the cut back in the military enrollment at Malmstrom, the district faced significant cut backs not only in staff but in facilities. Although not too hard hit this year, GFHS faced the unpleasantness of additional faculty cuts over the next several years.

Let's see ... oh! Thats the answer.

You take this and mix it with ...

Smile piggy you're on Candid Camera.

This is the 50th Anniversary year for GFHS as observers can tell by the cover. In this half century, the school has established an enviable record for academic and sports achievement. One year ago, the Northwest Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges evaluated the school and it's curriculum and staff, and found the entire area outstanding.

Do I have to touch it?

Want to go out?

I'm glad i'm in Chemistry

Look at those muscles!

Need some help?

Do we have to do this?

Reaching for it.

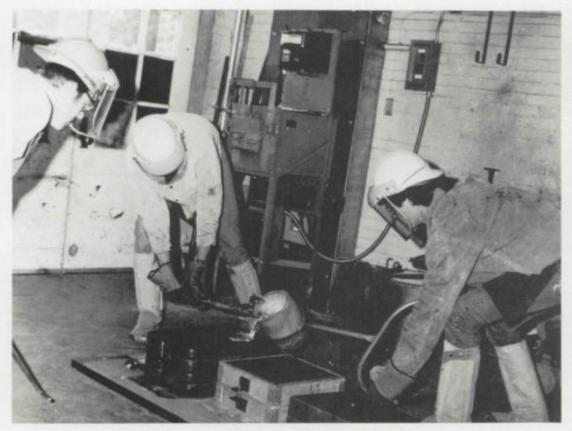

Five major additions have been made to the basic structure since it opened in 1930, and each has expanded the curriculum or curriculum related area. The library is considered one of the most complete in the state, the new vocational area building with its welding, automotive, and building trades accomodates a wide range of training. (see following copy blocks for other materials.)

Working on the muscles.

Up she goes!

Molding a pheasant.

The addition of the new physical education facility—known more familiarly as the Bison Fieldhouse—permitted the expansion of physical education programs for both boys and girls, and for the first time ever in Great Falls schools offered an expanded swimming program. The indoor track facility provided training for spring sports, and the freeing of the 'old' gym, permitted a wider use of gymnastics equipment.

This is how you do it.

What's going on?

Teacher? We need help.

The pheasant removed from mold.

Isn't he skinny?

New hair style.

Now I'm twice as smart.

The large East wing addition, built when the Great Falls Minuteman missile program brought a significant influx of students, also houses up-to-date science rooms on the third floor, and expanded Home Ec facilities on the first floor. Here too are the OE and DE programs that provide on-the-job training for future business people or secretarial and office work.

Is it fit to drink?

Roll out the omlette.

Although cut backs in staff and staff changes in the past year have altered curriculum offerings, they have not had the impact yet that the next year or so may show. Based upon preliminary enrollments for 1981-1982, some programs will definitely be combined if they are to survive. Journalism, for instance, has dropped from a full four class subject, to barely one; photography has been combined with art; some electives in difficulty with enrollees include forensics and debate, some in business education, and some in art.

I'm not to sure about this.

Smile now for it may not turn out.

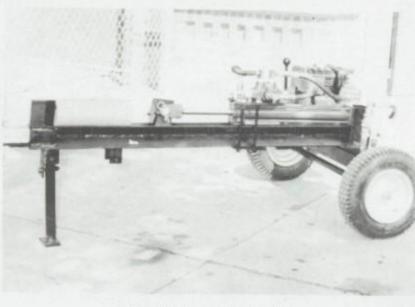

Mr. Spahr enjoying himself.

Sure I know how to sew.

Sure I'm an artist.

Woodcutting can be fun, ha!

What are you looking at?

Pottery in the making.

Basic worksheets for advisors and advisees working on schedules for next year show the following basic subject areas: English at all levels, and at two achievement levels; Math, from Business Math to the career maths including algebras, geometry, Trig and advanced Algebra, some computer courses, and Math Analysis; Histories, including basic civics and government, and psychology and sociology. (continued following pages)

Juniors trying to be artistic.

Don't pick on me, please?

We'll need this.

Sciences this year included the Health and PE, Swimming, Life Saving, Weight Training for both boys and girls, Drill Team, and Health Makeup; Home Economics had courses such as Meal Madness, Boutique Sewing, Outdoor Living, Prep for Life, Gourmet Foods, Sr. Sampler, HERO Foods, and HERO Child Care. Art courses offered ranged from Art in Society, Art Workshop and Fibers, through Design, Drawing, Painting, Photography, and Crafts and Structural Design.

Do you want to see how it's done?

Any ideas?

When are you going to start the movie?

Now to cut it.

I'm going to be a masoner.

Smoothing it over.

Although declining enrollments hurt all areas in a curriculum, Music and Language have still managed to attract their share of enrollments, although some lessening is evident in both areas. Music offers wide ranging Glee, Concert Choir, Chorale, Chamber, Concert Band, Symphonic Band, Jazz, Orchestra and Music Theory Courses. French offers 1-8, German 1-8, and Spanish 1-6 offerings in the foreign language area.

Ready? GO!

Here I'll show you how to do it.

Well let's see what this says.

In Trades and Industry courses, a wide ranging number are offered: Drafting through 21/2 years, Electric through two years, Metals through two, Welding through two, Power Mechanics, Auto Mech, Wood, Cabinet Making, Building Trades, and ICT. Business Education includes Office Machines, Typing, Business Law, Shorthand, Management and Marketing, Record Keeping, Office Job Training, Office Ed, DE, and EB-CAR, plus Accounting.

Enjoying the "tunes."

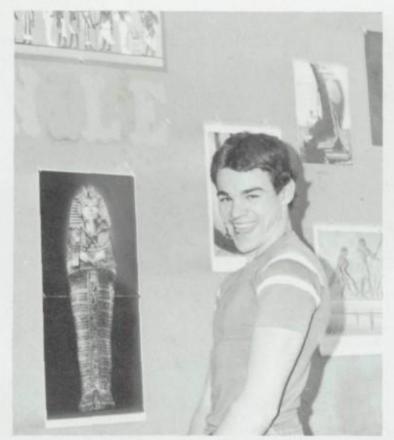

Gee . . . look how skinny he is.

Getting prepared for the language festival.

Lets see . . . this line goes here and . . .

Beware of the "Curse!"

Beautiful music.

Studying together is helpful.

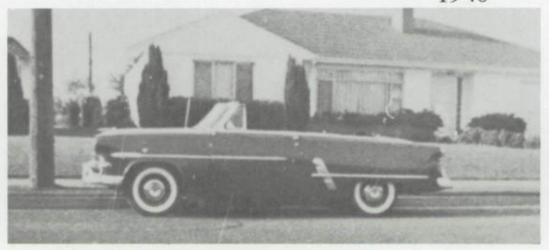

Principal Swarthout, in comments made to the Great Falls Tribune in connection with the Sunday, February 22, Progress Edition, said that there is a "renewed seriousness in school and studies" by the students, and that "old ideals about school" are returning. "Students," he noted, "know more now that ever before, and subjects they study now used to be taught in college." Perhaps GFHS will finish the century by upholding its fine traditions of academic offerings and achievement, and remain enviable in academic circles throughout the great Northwest.

RANDOM SHOTS FROM THE PORTLAND TRIP

The four buses which left Great Falls for Portland and the Northwest Music Educator's conference, carried the entire membership of the Bison band, Bison Orchestra, and Bison Delphian Choir. After a stop enroute at Spokane, and group continued to Portland where each group presented a concert to the educators. The five day trip was exhilarating and exhausting, especially following the non-stop return trip from Portland beginning Saturday night and culminating with a Sunday arrival in Great Falls

The Delphian Choir, Orchestra, and Band made the trip in four large buses and presented individual programs for the educators. Expenses for the trip were met by a mammoth Christmas time fruit sale which raised more than $20,000 for the trip's cost.

Last three games shown were DIVISIONALS with Bison out.

Returning from last year's team were seniors Steve Vestman, Mike Dougherty, and Scott Swan, and the successes this year were due in part to their effort. Also playing well for the Bison in supporting roles were Pete Tucker, Bob Scott, and Darrell Andrews. The team was helped by the play of three juniors: Kevin Guon, Chad Chytraus, and Joe Bies, who received valuable experience for the 1981-1982 team. At the Divisional in Boseman, the Bison played some of the best basketball of the year. Mike Dougherty played consistently in all games. Scott Swan shot well, and played outstanding defense. Vestman played the best game of his career against Helena Capital and was selected for the all-tournament second team. In the Helena game, the Bison had 6 more field goals than Capital; however, Capital won the game by shooting 92 per cent from the free throw line to win the game and qualify for the state tournament in Missoula.

TheAmerican Field Service Program and American-Scandinavian Exchange

Several programs have contributed to educational and cultural exchanges for students at GFHS this year, or for students from outside the continental U.S. coming here for study. During the past year, seven young women, pictured here, have experienced a broad cultural and educational experience. The AFS program has a chapter at GFHS which is sponsored by William Broderick, English teacher. This club assists the city chapter in raising one thousand dollars per high school in order to assist the national chapter in establishing exchanges. Mr. Broderick said that the city could have had four AFS students this year—there was enough money—but host families were needed, and these didn't materialize. Each spring an art auction is held and funds from the donated art sold are used to bolster the program. Mr. Broderick noted that a local businessman--Ira Kaufman--was an original member of AFS and noted that the idea came out of World War I. Mr. Kaufman was in the ambulance service during that time, and as a follow-up to the idea, the first exchanges were between France and America. The Scandinavian-American exchange is not as widely known as AFS, and is more recent. Headquarters for this exchange is in La Jolla, California, and just as Scandinavian students can come here, so too can American students travel abroad. Selection is base upon many criteria, and students wishing information can get it from Barbara Purdy in Great Falls at the present time. Students go abroad for a full year, and have to pay their basic transportation expenses and provide some money for themselves. Host families provide the basics. Three students at a high school in a city the size of Great Falls is generally the maximum number chosen.

National Honor Society and Heisey Award Presentation Recognize Top by each spring, GFHS Scholarship

Annually each spring, GFHS Heisey students or National Honor Society members gather for a special ceremony acknowledging those who have earned one of the coveted honors GFHS bestows. Heisey honors, always a cash award, go to students who have shown significant improvement scholastically or in service related activities during their high school years. The awards are made from a fund established by the late Charles Heisey, a pioneer Great Falls businessman, whose estate provides the funds. Because of growth, the value in money or the number of awards made changes from year-to-year. National Honor Society members are chosen on a number of criteria established by the national society itself. Not based solely on academic standing, the honor nevertheless does take into consideration GPA along with the other criteria. The NHS ceremony is open to the general public, and the ceremonies follow traditional rules set down by National. Both Heisey and NHS may have special speakers or guests, and while an assembly is usually dismissed to further classes, NHS is usually followed by a social hour in the cafeteria. Heisey award winners this year were too late to include in this year's ROUNDUP. Pictures here are from previous (1980) ceremonies, and show Principal Swarthout and NHS Sponsor Schlameus (dark jacket), and Dr. Elizabeth Furdell, College of Great Falls, congratulating honored students.

The 1980 Music Department Awards

Given annually during the music department's spring concert, the awards acknowledge significant contributions to the department's concerned by the students honored. Not based solely upon scholarship or talent, the awards also take into consideration individual leadership or personal contributions to the general welfare and spirit of the music department.

The Delphian Scholarship award is shared by Dawn Glinsman, left, and Marsha Franklin.

Originally begun in the late 1940's, Montana's Boys' State was initiated by the American Legion to adquaint Montana youth about the workings of government at all levels. The encampment at that time was at Western Montana College, at that time named State Normal School, Dillon. As the program grew in popularity, a Girls State division was added. Programs have been held throughout the state, and thousands of Montana youth have, since the inception, become familiar with government through a program which has included nationally recognized speakers, and a curriculum which stresses the strengths of the democratic society and the entire governmental form. Only students who are juniors may attend, and these are selected by faculty.
